Gambling behaviors activate reward systems similar to those activated by drugs of abuse and produce some behavioral symptoms that appear comparable to those produced by the substance use disorders.1

Similarities Between Substance Use Disorder & Gambling Disorder2

- A state of euphoria resulting from engagement in the behavior. Thus, the behavior— at least early in the course of the chronic condition—is pleasurable (engagement in the behavior for purposes of reward);
- Preoccupation when engaging in the activity;
- Loss of control at times when engaging in the behavior;
- Progression of problems and symptoms over time;
- Stage of change, readiness to change, and interest in changing issues, usually manifesting as diminished recognition of problems associated with addictive behavior;
- The behavior is continued in spite of adverse consequences;
- Tolerance develops with repeated engagement in the behavior;
- Urges and cravings develop regarding further engagement in the behavior;
- There is enhanced cue responsiveness, which can trigger relapse to the behavior;
- Withdrawal symptoms occur when the activity is unavailable;
- Psychological drives of escape, self-medication, and avoidance exist (engagement in the behavior for purposes of relief);
- Committing illegal acts to fund ongoing engagement with the behavior (substance use or gambling) can be episodic, chronic, or in remission.
